Circus Stars Are Made Not Born In F. S. U. "Flying High" Circus

Lovely Julia Milam will thrill her audiences when Florida State University's colorful circus arrives on Feb. 21, 1959 as she performs unbelievable feats of courage on her slack wire.

Circus stars are made, not born. This will be seen in spectacular style in Belle Glade on Feb. 21st, when the Rotary Club presents the nationally famous "Flying High" all-star circus of Florida State University in Tallahassee.

Most of the students as freshmen, girls must wait until the second half of their sophomore year they can receive credit. It didn't know a handstand for a forward somersault when they started.

Directing hand and heart of the circus is Coach Jack Harkin, with his assistant, Jim DeComo, of the FSU physical education department. From an annual crop of willing but inexperienced boys and girls, Coach Harkin and DeComo annually present what is considered by many as the finest university show in the world. Candidates for "circus" are given simple tests by their coaches. Some are in acrobatics, then a quick workout on the ladder and trapeze. The girls may get an added simple dance routine check. All of them are checked on climbing for height which indicates those best suited for stage acts only.

Everyone starts by doing the same things. First they learn simple tricks, gradually they work into the more complicated ones, the specialties developing out of the student's own abilities.

Girls, and there are more girls than boys, who take "circus" because of the number of dancers used, fit in whether they weigh much or little and are tall or short - the taller ones are placed in the web routine. The lighter ones, under 110 pounds, may go into the high-flying acts.

Boys too small for the football team or other varsity sports frequently and up stars in the circus where timing counts as much as strength.

Everyone performs under safety-first conditions at all times. A four inch carpet of sawdust cushions the ground in the practice area on campus. Safety lines and belts are used in the high acts, and nets are up when anyone is performing more than 10 feet off the ground.

As the practices progress, top performers are picked to staff the traveling troupe. Play dates are scheduled for 1959, and holidays so that school work will not be interrupted.

Performers must carry a "C" average before they can travel the clipperton tours in their own brightly painted circus bus. The result is circus with a capital C and all stars removed.

The FSU "Flying High" Circus has been featured in national magazines and movies and on national television. The beauty of the FSU circus performances all add up to two hours of top entertainment and visual proof to the adage that "circus stars are made, not born."

Boys and Girls In Service

Army Pvt. Charles P. Scherfler, 18, of Belle Glade, Fla., recently completed the eight-week communications and mess center procedures course at the Army's Southeastern Signal School, Fort Gordon, Ga. He entered the Army in September 1958 and received basic combat training at Fort Jackson, S. C. Scherfler is a 1958 graduate of Belle Glade High School. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Scherfler, live in Belle Glade.

A. J. Harrell received his discharge from the United States Army on Feb. 7 at Fort Bragg, N. C., where he was serving with the Continental Army Airborne Electronic Board since June 1958. He joined the service in Jan. 1958 and transferred to Ft. Jackson until June, Mr. and Mrs. Harrell are now making their home on SR 40 near Belle Glade, having moved over the weekend.

No Cuts Proposed For Nat'l Defense

In Senator Spessard Holland's latest report from Washington, he says he believes that national defense must not be jeopardized through efforts to balance the federal budget.

"Contrary to widespread opinion," he said, "defense spending has not gone up substantially since 1954. A 17% rise in domestic expenditures during this period is the major reason for increased federal spending."

"While I strongly oppose further tax increases, I can see no possibility of early tax reductions."

The senator goes on to cite recent legislation introduced by him:

A bill to amend the Taft-Hartley Law to protect state laws regulating strikes in utilities serving the public.

A bill (with Sen. Smathers) would place the highway linking Tampa, Miami and Homestead within the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways.

Another bill with Sen. Smith would create an advisory National Advisory Committee for the Blind and study federal, state and local activities relating to the blind.

Another bill with Sen. Smith would create an advisory National Advisory Committee for the Blind and study federal, state and local activities relating to the blind.

JOB & WORKER

By J. W. Mosley, Jr., Manager Florida State Employment Service Belle Glade, Fla.

Plan Ahead . . .

Early in June the high schools in the Glades will send forth approximately 200 young men and women graduates. Of these, about 80 plan to further their education in colleges and business schools. The remaining 117 will be faced with the task of finding their place in working world in their home communities.

Keep Them Here . . .

These young people starting out on perhaps the most important venture in their lives, need the help and guidance of their parents, teachers and friends; they need the security found in their home towns. To prevent their having to go to a strange place to find work, it is the duty of every person here, to try to make it possible for them to stay.

Start Now . . .

We at the Florida State Employment Service are vitally concerned with the task of finding suitable jobs for young people entering the labor market for the first time. We have started job testing and counseling programs in the schools, and will carry them out to completion before graduation time. But we need the help of all the employers in this area; we urge you to start thinking now about these young people as young workers.

Statistics . . .

Records have shown that the young high school graduate is generally between the ages of 17 and 19, eager and able to learn. They will make mistakes, but all they ask of you, Mr. Employer, is an opportunity to try. Make an investment in the future of your community . . . although the summer months are slow for us here compared to the winter months, make a real effort to help a high school graduate find his place in the scheme of things. A person settled and happy in his job is always an asset to his employer and his town, in addition to being a source of satisfaction and pride to his parents, teachers, and friends.

Call Us . . .

We will make use of all the technical facilities, training and experience at our command to send you the person best suited for the job you want done. And, you will feel better for having played an important part in a young life.

Coryza . . . What The Heck Is It Anyway?

Did you know that "coryza" is the most common of all widespread diseases?

The World Book Encyclopedia reveals that more than twenty million people may have coryza at the same time this year.

On the average, coryza keeps every U. S. citizen away from work or school about three days out of every year.

Four chances of catching coryza are best in the months of December and January. In all, the disease is estimated to cost more than five billion dollars annually. This includes cost of treatment, time lost from work and lost wages.

Coryza is the technical name for the disease which so far has baffled medical science - the common cold!

How Did We Get Valentine's Day?

St. Valentine's Day has long challenged historians to explain how a Christian saint became identified with a pagan custom of exchanging tokens of love.

The answer may be simply that somebody got his ABC's mixed up.

The research department of The World Book Encyclopedia points out that at one time the letters "v" and "w" frequently were interchangeable in popular speech.

Among the Normans, the "galatin" was a lover of the fair sex - probably a wolf, according to present-day terminology. But the word often was written and pronounced "valentin."

THE KLAUTZ INDIAN FAMILY, nationally famous gospel singers, are now appearing nightly at tent revival services at S. E. 3rd St. and Ave. D through Feb. 18 under the auspices of the Church of God, Seen (L.) are Melvin Ray, Vernon Kenneth and Mrs. Klautz. Reverend and Mrs. Klautz left their native North Dakota as a gospel-spreading team about 30 years ago, and as the children arrived and were old enough they joined the parents in their work. Mrs. Klautz was a missionary among her own people, the Arizakera tribe, before her marriage. She met Rev. Klautz while he was engaged in evangelistic work there. Education for the family has not been neglected. The oldest boy, Vernon, received his BA degree from Oglethorpe University and his BD from Emory at Atlanta. He is considered one of the finest gospel singers on the road today. Melvin attended Lee and Oglethorpe colleges, sings and plays trombone in the appearances. Kenneth and Ray are presently attending Lee College at Cleveland, Tenn.

By a natural confusion of names, the Christian martyr established as the patron saint of sweethearts, and his name given to the Roman festival at which young men and women chose partners for the coming year.

The church fathers may have taken over the Roman holiday, which was celebrated on Feb. 15, and named it after three saints named Valentine, whose feast day fell on Feb. 14.

Magazine Article Tells Of Cattlemen's Assn.

Did you know that severe floods in 1933 and 1934, coupled with the reluctance of bankers to loan on cows, was responsible for establishment of The Florida Cattlemen's Association on February 1, 1934?

This and a great deal of other information is included in a 36-page historical section which appears as part of the February issue of The Florida Cattlemen magazine, mailed to subscribers recently.

Eight pages of the section are devoted to a history of two pages containing a list of "Milestones in FCA History," illustrated with photographs.

Uncle Dan From Democrat River Says

Dear Mister Editor:
 I see where some fellow in Georgia that's been making and selling wood barrels for 50 years is going out on business. There are these ain't no sale now for fer nothing but metal drums. I reckon sour krout is a rusty tin post war improvements. We're going to keep on getting them improvements till toerman poison gits us all.
 I hate mighty bad to see wood barrel makers go out of business. Besides losing all the useful things a wood barrel is good for, what's going to happen to them annual cartoons showing a man walking home from the tax office in a barrel? It seems to me that them Congressmen since they subsidize everything else, should come to the aid of the wood barrel makers.
 And a piece in the paper this morning says they're going to have a contest in some North Carolina town to see which can walk 25 miles the fastest, a man or a horse. It was the man, not the horse, that thought up this contest. I think that illustrates in a nutshell the difference between horse sense and the kind some humans has got.
 Well, our Congressman is gitting back in the political groove and it looks like the Democrats has took over for the time being. Politics in Congress for the next two years is going to be one-sided as a drunk's hat. The Republicans ain't going to have no more say-in in the thing than a hog has at a hog calling contest. That's the way it goes, the Republicans run the country for a spell, then the Democrats take over and I reckon as long as we keep swapping ends things will survive. In the meantime, life for the voter is a everlasting struggle to keep his money coming in and his hair and teeth from coming out. Republican or Democrat Congress, it's all the same to me. I like the idea that the worst is yet to come that gits him down. It's the terrible uncertainty when it's going to gite here that keeps him awake at night. And the thing that worries me, Mister Editor, is that our problems gits bigger and bigger all the time. For instance, in the thirties you had to buy a apple to help the unemployed, but now you've got to buy a automobile.
 That rich fellow that died in Maryland a couple year ago and didn't leave no will and no family really started someone. The papers said yesterday that more'n 26,000 has now filed claims for his estate. I'm now gitting to tear the top off my birth certificate and file my claim to-day. I'm going to mail it along

 Dear Luther:
 For many years you have been sending us a copy of your excellent paper, Charley and I have enjoyed receiving it. It is almost like getting the old home town paper since we both spent many years in the Everglades. I suppose that I enjoy it the most because I was there longer and still remember a great many of the people. It is of particular value to me when you have items of agricultural interest. I can also visual-

South Bay Council Acts On Building

The South Bay City Council Thursday accepted the apparent low bid of Glades Chevrolet for a new 1959 police car for the city.

They also voted to accept a zoning board's recommendation and grant a three-year building permit for a building at the city's air field.

The police car bid was $2,486.10, the present '54 car is taken in trade at $1,875.75 purchased outright.

The air field building decision was the result of tabled action for several weeks. The three-year period for W. W. Galus, builder, will commence from the date of issuance of the permit.

The council also authorized the building inspector to issue all building permits.

Approved building permits for William Masonie ($1,675) for remodeling and Moore Haven Ice Co. for a $16,000 ice plant to be built on N. W. Canal Ave. north of the F. E. C. right-of-way.

Culpepers Operate Grassy Waters Motel

New operators of Grassy Waters Motel and Restaurant Pahokee are G. C. Culpepper and his son, of Nags Head N. C. The Culpeppers, who own and operate a hotel in Nags Head and a motel at Boynton Beach, have leased the business from Don Miller.

Resident manager of the motel will be Mrs. Dorothy Lippard, formerly of the Boynton Beach resort. Mrs. Mildred Schoepel will continue as restaurant manager.

With spring around the corner, homeowners in this area were warned today by I. L. Price, Executive Secretary of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce to be on guard against self-styled termite control "experts" and quacks who annual by bilk the public of an Estimated one hundred million dollars.

Emphasizing that there are many termite control firms which offer honest and competent service, Price stated that public ignorance of termites and their control has made it relatively easy for the minority of swindlers in this field to get away with their worthless treatments.

Here are a few pointers and hints to help select proper firms to help with such a problem:

1. Quacks and sleek operators frequently use the fear appeal; however, a few weeks delay won't hurt much. Take time to investigate a firm.
2. Be informed about the problem. Contact USDA, the county agent's office or Dept. of Entomology at a state university.
3. Beware of false inspectors. Ask for credentials of itinerant inspectors or salesman. Get a look at his city license or county permit.
4. Beware of cheap price quotations. Where possible, deal with established local experts.
5. Homeowners can be sure they are dealing with a reliable firm by investigating. The Girl Scout hut.

COLD SUFFERERS

Get STANBACK, labels or symbols, for relief of COLD DISCOMFORTS. The STANBACK prescription type formula is a combination of pain relieving ingredients that work together for FASTER RELIEF OF HEADACHE, NEURALGIA AND MIGRAINE. It is not a sedative. STANBACK also relieves the "flu" and "cold" symptoms. SNAP BACK with STANBACK.

For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. It is one after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) takes place. Most of all—relief has been found through that effective medicine containing the substance "Bio-Dyne"—the recovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form called Preparation "Z". At all drug counters—money back guarantee.

Juvenile Delinquency

 point additional judges for county juvenile courts to reduce the work load of such judicial branches.
 2. That the county arrange to properly facilitate and staff a detention home for maximum security and training of juveniles and abolish the system of incarceration in the county jail.
 3. That the county add more assistant juvenile counselors to carry the increasing population.
 4. That adult training classes be established to teach parents how to become better mothers and fathers.
 5. That psychologists be established within the juvenile court to study emotionally disturbed delinquents.
 6. That the county and municipalities sponsor and chaperone youth events such as athletic programs, hobby clubs and dances.
 7. That literature being sold in neighborhood stores be policed to eliminate undesirable types of publications.

 8. That civic and church organizations explore the possibility of sponsoring more planned Family Nights to develop family unity.
 9. That established youth organizations be given greater support thereby spreading the influence of youth movements that are doing an excellent job.

The Survey
 During 1957, the juvenile courts reported on 31,295 referrals of children alleged to be delinquent, dependent and neglected, or to have violated traffic laws. This involved 25,116 boys and girls, an increase of 8,837 children from 1956. Two thousand one hundred and thirty-five cases were dismissed.

From the questionnaires referred to above, surveys reported 83% of them back. All reports were strictly confidential and allowed greater freedom among those questioned to actually "speak their minds." Clergymen of all faiths, principals, law enforcement officials, local PTA units and physicians were asked to comment on various phases of problems. These 69,000 comments were the subject of the study and are to be the actors in a very important drama," the survey says. "A drama of living in a rocket age with all the tensions and complexities that are commonplace to our present civilization. How do they presently measure up in our country? Are they behaving in an average way or are they below or above what might be considered normal for their respective age groups."

The Causes
 Reasons, causes and stimuli for juvenile delinquency and suggestions or recommendations for curbing it were presented by the returned questionnaires. Some of the remarks were: "... lack of discipline and parental example in many cases," "Too many adults and unappreciated luxuries."
 "The main concern for control of wayward teenagers is education of the parents on how to bring up children while they are still children," the survey says. "I.e., formal controls in the school starting with the grade school levels. Other controls after this time are effective only at a punitive level."

"Juvenile delinquency, as we know it, stems from a lack of family unity as a result of changing social mores, lack of parent interest, and the fast, dangerous age the children find themselves in during the past ten or more years."
 "Discipline should be put back in the schools, but we cannot expect the teachers to discipline the child when they receive no discipline at home."
 "As long as large numbers of parents behave like spoiled children, we can hardly expect their children to grow into mature adults."

Other Answers
 Clergymen placed more emphasis on the individual child and the parent, rather than the social setting, as a primary responsibility for juvenile moral delinquency.
 Principals reported truancy on the decline but a slight increase in vandalism, said delinquents as a group are behind their age mates in school.
 Most principals feel that the social setting and the parents are equally responsible for the behavior of juvenile delinquents. Most principals urged greater liaison with teachers and parents.

Some Conclusions
 The Child Guidance Center at West Palm Beach seems to be effective, but there should be other means to augment its services, the committee felt.
 "It appears to the committee that as the population of the county increases... some changes will be most necessary to maintain the efficiency and adequate handling of juvenile delinquents," the report comsallies through the air with the greatest ease at Florida State University's colorful Big Top production Feb. 21 at Belle Glade.

The most accepted figure is that one or two percent of the total child population ages 10-17 are juvenile delinquents in need of care of some kind.

OES Pays Courtesy To Aleese Cherry
 Mrs. Edna Pennington, worthy matron, presided at the regular meeting of Belle Glade Chapter No. 197, Order of Eastern Star, Thursday evening Feb. 5. A special courtesy was paid to Mrs. Aleese Cherry, Grand representative to New Hampshire. Mrs. William Graber, Mrs. Sally Stein and several officers participated and also presented a gift from the chapter. Mrs. Mabel Young, grand instructor of District 18 from Pahokee was welcomed as a special guest and was seated in the East with Mrs. Cherry. A Valentine courtesy was also paid Mrs. Cherry.

Degrees of the Order were conferred upon Mrs. Jack Hollingsworth and Mrs. Madge Taylor was welcomed as a member through affiliation and installed as organist. Mrs. Edna Barrett of Canal Point presented a sounding block as a gift to the chapter.

 At the close of the meeting a refreshment committee composed of Mrs. Louise Hendry, Mrs. Della Fay Waldron, Mrs. Mrs. Aileen Merriam and Mrs. Julia Hemphill served cup cakes and punch carrying out the Valentine theme. Decorations were also in the theme.

Fronton Newcomer Is Looking Better
 Lorenzo, a new comer to Palm Beach Fronton, but in his third appearance in the United States, is proving that it takes time to get accustomed to a new court of play.
 After a month and a half of play he is turning out to be one of the more consistent players in the earlier games. His record shows that this past week he has played in the first game five times, which is a five point singles contest and has scored two wins and two places. His season record for the game stands at eight wins, three place and four shows, which is second high as Ona, the four year veteran at the Fronton, is leading with nine victories in thirty-one games as of Friday nights play.

Tied for the lead are the teams of Angel and Malibu and Arriola with ten points apiece, with last year defending champions Larrea and Urrutia next with seven. Scoring is based on five points for win, three for place and one for the show position.
